The page contains a central Sema diagram, a key element in Sema rituals. The diagram consists of a central point (nawma) with two dots, surrounded by concentric circles of varying colors (blue, gold, and brown). The diagram is set within a teardrop-shaped frame and is surrounded by intricate floral and geometric patterns in blue, red, and gold. Below the diagram, there are several lines of handwritten Arabic text in a cursive script. Some words are underlined in blue and red, indicating specific parts of the text. The text appears to be a form of liturgical or philosophical writing, possibly related to the Sema ceremony.

Handwritten musical notation on three staves, featuring large, stylized black notes with red and blue accents, typical of medieval Gregorian chant manuscripts.

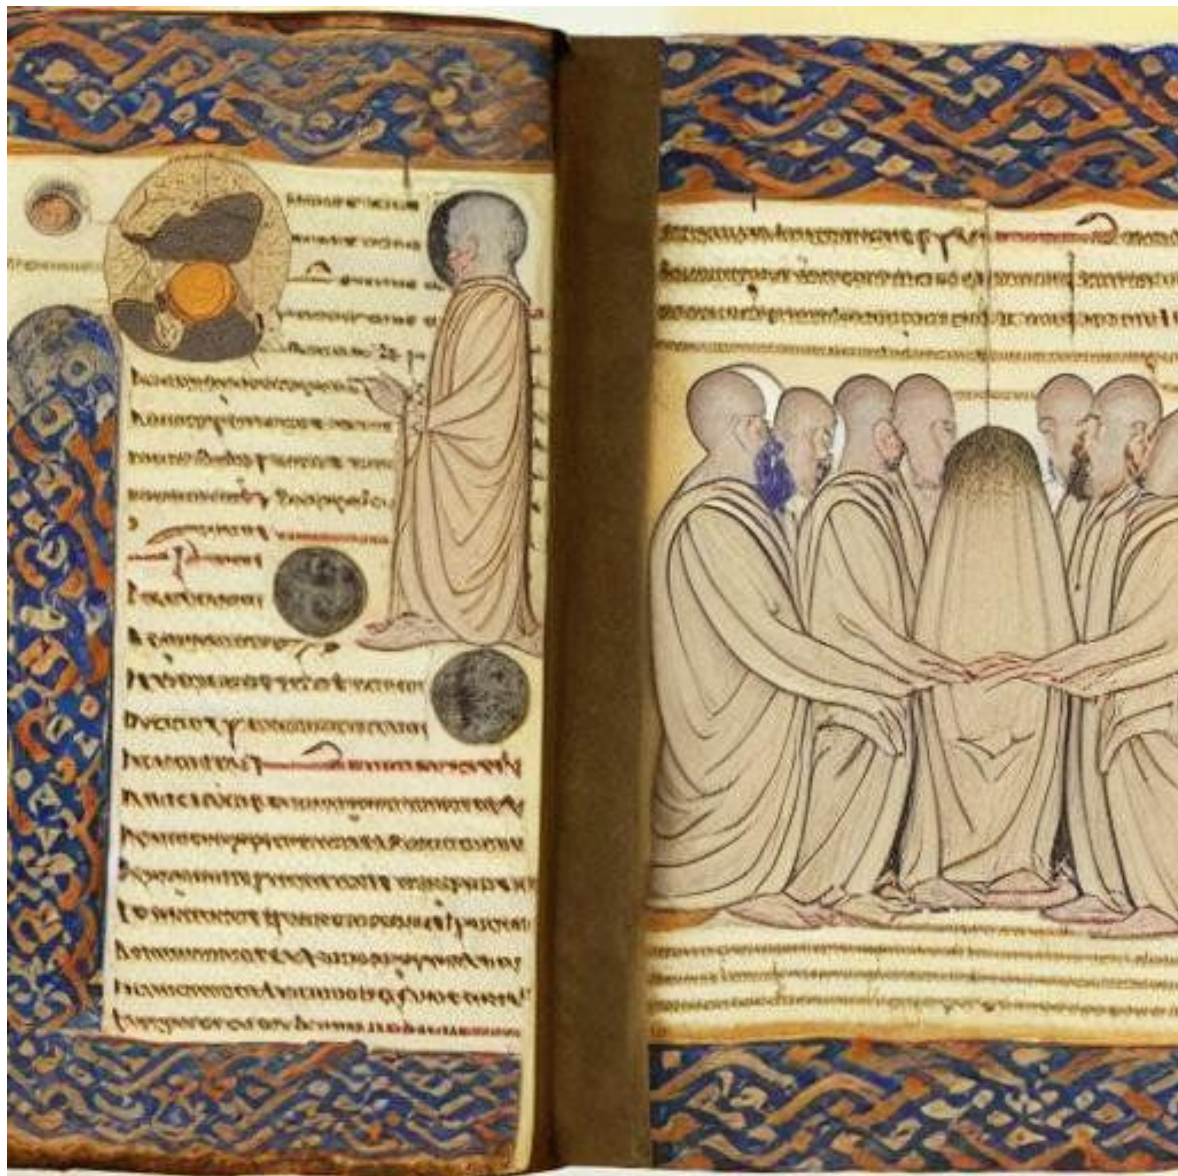

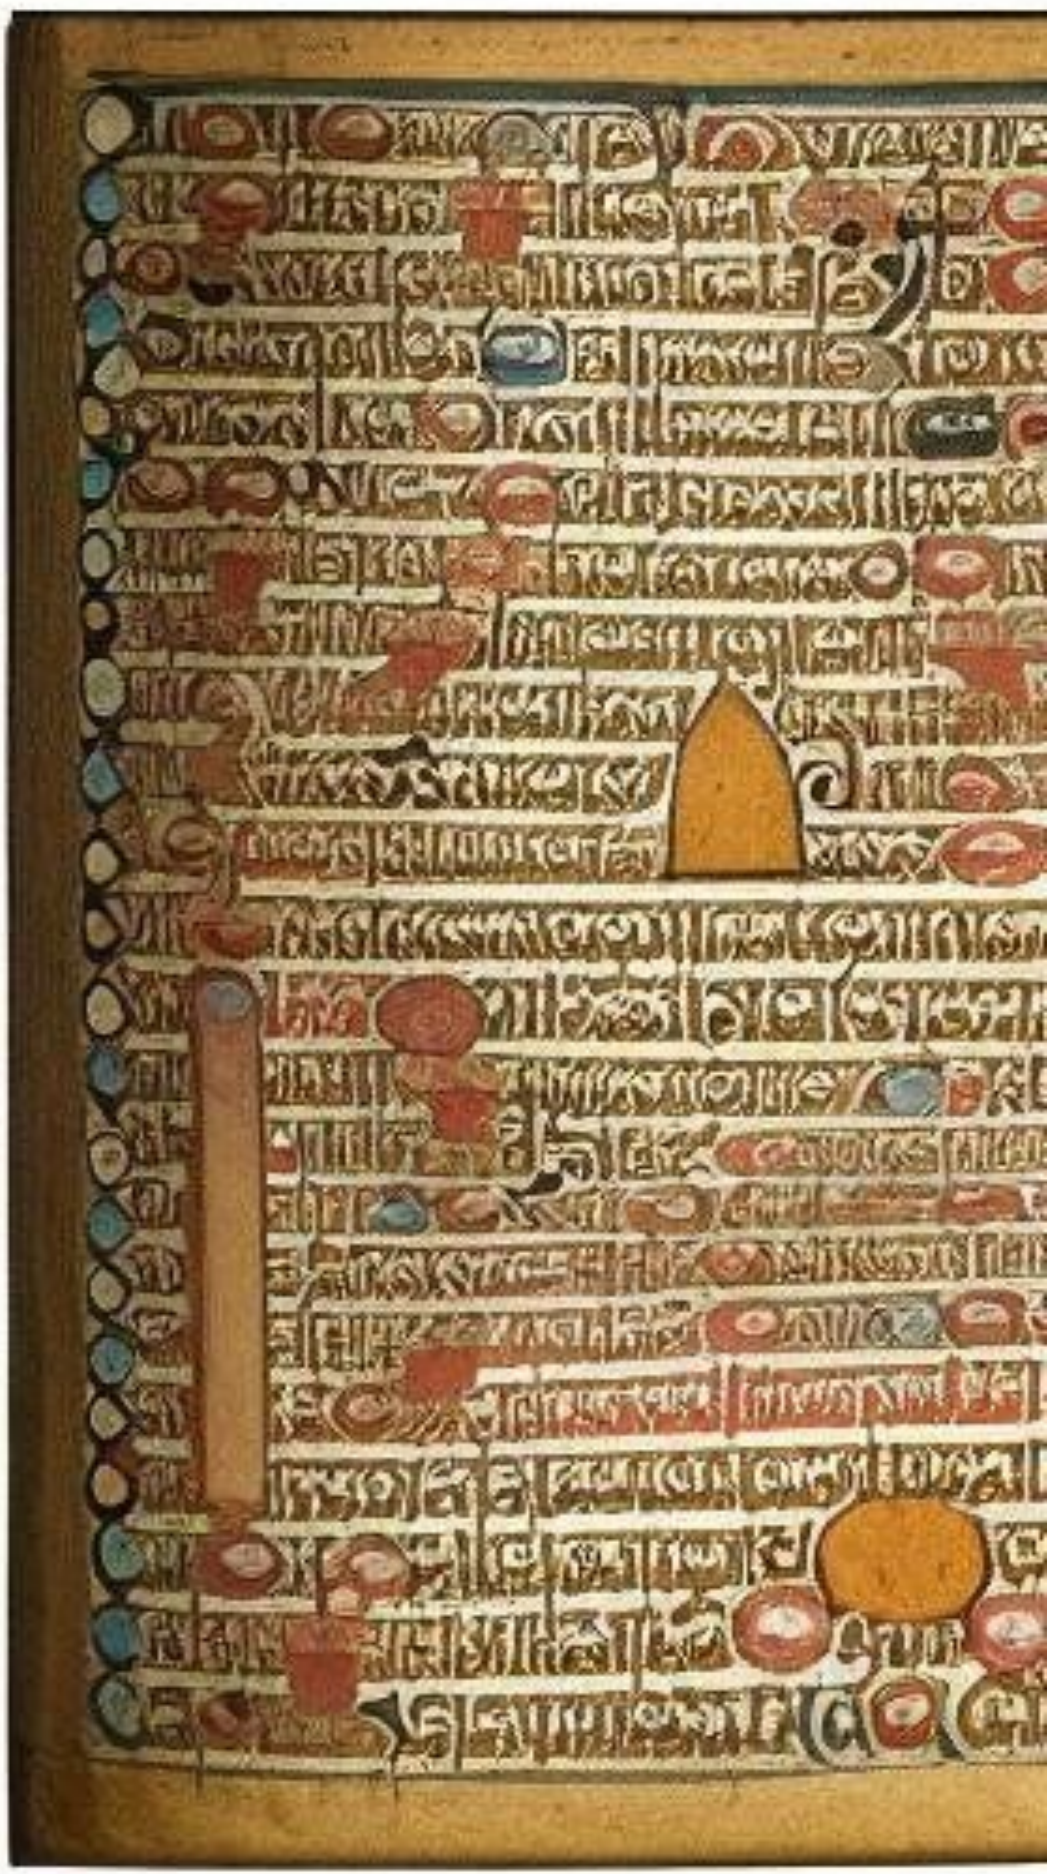

Vertical column of handwritten text in a medieval script, likely Latin, written in brown ink. The text is arranged in a single column between the two pages.
